

Bruno Duarte

Bruno Duarte has played rock with Velveteen, pop in My Best Nose, secret songs in Lee and Me and 'seated' music with München. Nowadays, as a solo performer, the guitar is his compass, guiding him through dismal and dusty paths that few dared to tread until the end. A bitter and lonely ride, this music holds within the pleasures offered only to the fallen ones: the beautiful, scorching light of the morning following a messy night, angry and insatiable. No sleep, of course. Pick up the car and drive 500 miles without stopping, with Pajo and Fahey in the back seat.
